CATTLEMAN IS UNDER ARREST

George Holmes is Charged With Alleged Legalistic Neutrality Violation.

George Holmes, a cattle commission man, who imported many cattle into El Paso from Mexico during the time that Villa was in charge of northern Mexico, was arrested at Fort Bliss Wednesday on a charge of "participating in an anti-Carranza plot in company with Gen. Manuel Ochoa and Jose de Luna."

The arrest was made by N. F. Work, deputy United States marshal, on complaint of H. B. Mock, special agent of the department of justice. He was released on a bond of $2500.

The charge in the United States commissioner's court against Holmes is that of "beginning and setting on foot, and providing and preparing means for a military expedition and enterprise to be carried on from the United States against the United States of Mexico, a friendly country, on Aug. 21, near Fabert."

Kentucky Officers Carry Swagger Sticks; Listen For "Marse Henry's" Roar

A dash of the military pomp of Great Britain has been brought to El Paso by the Kentucky national guard contingent.

Swagger sticks, the chief of adornment of the British officer, were brought to the border by practically all of the officers of the Kentucky brigade.

And it is to Col. Allen W. Gullion, commanding the second regiment, that the fashion is credited. Col. Gullion, a captain in the 26th United States infantry, detailed to service with the national guard, arrived in the state mobilization camp at Fort Thomas, Ky., with a swagger stick. The fad spread. It was not long until practically every officer in the camp had one. And just before the brigade left for the border a swagger stick day was held when the officers paraded with their sticks.

Col. Gullion is widely known in El Paso, having been stationed here with his regiment for about two years. An assistant of the expeditionary base at Columbus he played a large part in the arrangements, which coordinated the various commands comprising Gen. J. J. Pershing's force. He is perhaps the only national guard officer on station in El Paso who has served with the present Mexican expedition.

His present command is made up largely of Kentucky mountaineers, little big chested men who are more used to handling a "squirrel" rifle than a Springfield. But even among these Col. Gullion's military bearing is such as to attract comment.

Col. Gullion, appointed to West Point from Kentucky in 1901, is a veteran of the Philippines and, in addition to being a graduate of the military academy, holds a law degree from the University of Kentucky.

ROTARY TO AID THE BOY SCOUTS

Lieut. Lamb, of Michigan Infantry, Urges Fostering of Movement Here.

A committee "to foster and carry out to a successful conclusion the Boy Scout movement in El Paso," will soon be appointed by Dr. R. L. Ramey, president of the Rotary club, according to motion made and carried at the club's weekly luncheon in the Rotary grill at the Hotel Sheldon, Thursday.

The suggestion was made in the course of a spirited address made by Lieut. Merritt Lamb, 25th Michigan infantry. Mr. Lamb had had experience in scout work in his home state.

"If every city of any size in the United States has done so much in building up the scout movement, there is no reason why El Paso should be backward," said Lieut. Lamb. "There are several hundred boys in El Paso who are just waiting for you gentlemen to give them an opportunity to become scouts. Let's hope that something will happen at the end of this meeting."

The lieutenant was not disappointed. Hardly had he taken his seat before J. R. Segall arose and stated that there was already a scout movement in the city, fostered by the Y. M. C. A.

"I wish to add that El Paso is never backward in taking up anything that is worth while," continued Mr. Segall, with some feeling.

Robert Kraker contributed the opinion that, though there might be some scout work being done in the city, not enough attention had been devoted to the subject and moved that a committee of not less than 12 and not more than 15 be appointed by the president. His motion was supported by S. C. Aubrey, who announced that he was going to put his three year old son into the scout movement as soon as the boy was old enough to join.

Sing Grasshopper Song.

Prosperous bankers, grave surgeons, and serious students joined in a hearty chorus of a grasshopper song rendered by Arthur West Alvis Patrick Hooligan Stromberg, headliner of the Crawford vaudeville bill, who was accompanied by Miss Estrella Hailey, orchestra leader at the show house.

Mr. Stromberg's services were contracted by E. P. Maxwell, manager of the Crawford and Texas Grand theaters, who promised the Rotarians that he would furnish them appropriate entertainment from time to time during the coming season.

Mr. Stromberg made a decided hit with the Rotarians, being forced to give numerous encores. The performer proved his ability as a raconteur as well as a singer by keeping the club in an uproar with several stories.

At the end of the meeting Miss Hailey was presented with a silver cup, contents of which were not made known but the appearance of which augured well, and Mr. Stromberg was given an order for the members of the club in the stock of Kollberg Bros.

Father Malone Speaks.

Rev. Fr. J. H. Malone, of the El Paso diocese, gave a stirring talk on "Unity," emphasizing the importance of team work in the upbuilding of any organization, whether religious or commercial.

The Rotarians are a grand exception to the rule that most organizations lack unity," said Rev. Fr. Malone. "Upon you, gentlemen, rests a large part of the responsibility of building up El Paso into one of the country's metropolises."

R. P. Davis presided over the luncheon. He appointed A. E. Ryan and Glenn Moore as the entertainment committee to have charge of the program for the next two weeks.

A. H. Totten drew the prize this week which was a silver cup presented by the goat, Richard Newton. The goat for next week is to be F. B. Simmons, about 20 pounds were found for being late by sergeant at arms Will E. Welch. The proceeds of the fines are turned over to the Good Samaritan fund out of which remembrances are sent to the families of members on appropriate occasions.

Relief for Catarrr Sufferers Now FREE

You Can Now Treat This Trouble in Your Own Home and Get Relief at Once.

How the Remedy for Catarrr Was Discovered.

THIS terrible disease has raged unchecked for years simply because symptoms have been treated while the cause of the trouble has been left to circulate in the blood, and bring the disease back as fast as local treatments could relieve it.

C. E. Gauss, who experimented for years on a treatment for Catarrr, found that after perfecting a balm that relieved the nose and throat troubles quickly, he could not prevent the trouble beginning all over again.

On test cases, he could completely remove all signs of Catarrr from nose and throat, but in a few weeks they were back.
